PATRIOT PRIDE

It began with a lot of people . . . students like you and me . . . we wanted to stand out.

What was taking place was an understanding. We were more than just a group. We were special and we could achieve our goals.

First came our sports program. Our athletes trained long and hard to give it their best shot. With determination such as this we came home with swimming trophies, city baseball title, and third in the state in the class AAA football division. These were achievements that we, as Patriots, could be proud of.

Patriot pride was a custom among Marshall's student body. The special quality that sets us apart is more of an understanding; a kind of unwritten law. In fact, it could be our own way—our own "Marshall Law."

by Pam Lloyd
Kathy Weir

Football pride doesn't just include the boy's team; not to be forgotten is the senior girl's powderpuff teams Goffinet's Baugh Girls and Bonfil's Beauties.

The victorious varsity baseball team knows they're number one which just goes to show Patriot pride means athletic achievement.

Our cheerleaders are leading the way we show our school pride to the Indianapolis community.

Vice-principal, Fred Jones, congratulates Chris Pritchett and his team members on a great season.

ACADEMIC EXCELLENCE

Academically, intensive study along with diligence in work brought superiority to Marshall. Our CAT tests reflected our hard work, Marshall had the highest school average of all of the Indianapolis Public Schools. Students competed in contests such as Bosch and Lomb Science Fair, Rose Hulman Math Day and Marion County Press Day and brought back awards that now hang proudly in our showcase.

Taking orphans to the zoo and collecting canned foods for the needy gave the community respect for our school. Music ensembles travelled to nursing and convalescent homes during the holidays to bring cheer to those without families. Caring is a part of Marshall that we Patriots can be proud of.

Hard work and training — academic excellence — and caring. These are the laws that we Patriots abide by. The unwritten law — Marshall Law.

Although the sophomore float entry didn't come in first, it was still a winner with the theme "Heaven — Home of the Patriots."

The music department has always been an excellent example of Patriot Pride. Here Sophomores Joyce Henry and Tina Cortellini attend Concert Choir.

Mattress Mania

"Once Upon a Mattress" was the spring musical last year. The play, a comedy about a medieval castle and its search for a princess who was "good enough, smart enough, rich enough and bright enough", was a hilarious success.

Jennifer Chapman played Queen Aggravain, an over protective mother who refused any girl her son chose to marry, and Dion Wolf played King Sextimus a maiden-chasing mute who got his say in the end.

Dauntless, the young prince was portrayed brilliantly by Mike Mulcahy and his chosen bride, though his mother forbade, was princess Winifred, "Fred for short" played by Tami Prunty.

David Jordan gave an excellent performance as the minstrel who tried his best to help in any way he could; although, when the Jester played by Nick Hopkins joined him in this plight it often ended in even more trouble. Mark Brown, the Wizard, an old magician, who, along with the Queen, tried to destroy Fred's chance to become princess and marry Dauntless, thus setting off the law and allowing the entire kingdom to marry.

The musical was done in two acts and was beautifully choreographed by Kelle Meyer. The directors of the play were Janet Eberle, Cindy Featheringill and Jerry Hurst. The stage manager was Paul Justice and orchestra was rehearsed by Raymond Brandes.

Patriots Burn Blue Devils

Although October 12 was a blustery cold night, it didn't stop Patriot fans from attending the 13th annual Homecoming against the Shortridge Blue Devils.

Homecoming spirit week went well beginning with discovery day and ending with dress up and flower day.

After the National Anthem, many excited fans awaited the kickoff. Unfortunately, there weren't many 'Ridge fans.

Halftime was a great success with all the unusual floats. The winner of the float competition was the class of '81 with the slogan "The Shortridge Blue Devils are never ready, but the JMHS

Patriots are every ready.

Next, the Homecoming Queen candidates were paraded around the track in the T-topped cars until they reached center field. The stadium became very hushed before they finally announced Kerry Hallam, the Homecoming Queen of 1979.

Finally, the traditional student council fireworks were set off which the students had contributed generously for.

Homecoming ended in a victory for all Patriots, with the score Marshall 22-Shortridge 14.

Turning Tables of Tradition

Traditionally, it has been proper for the boy to ask the girl out. However, every spring Marshall turns the tables of tradition and has a dance especially for the girl to have a chance to ask out her favorite guy.

Although the turnabout was its usual success, the specialty of having the dinner included with the dance made it even more popular. This extra addition did hike up the price of the ticket; however, it proved to be well worth the expense, said most couples.

Disc jockey Sunny Moon spun the records that couples danced to from seven to twelve o'clock on the Sheraton Inn East dance floor.

Jill Stephenson, chairman of the dance, said she was most pleased about the capacity turn-out at our first dinner dance.

A Night for Dancing

"Always and Forever", prom night, a night to be remembered. A night for dancing, being with friends, and being at your school prom, drew many Patriots to the prom.

Many patriotic juniors and seniors crowded enthusiastically into the 500 Ballroom at the Convention Center. The theme was carried over by roses at each table. Each couple received a champagne glass to help them remember the '78-'79 Junior-Senior Prom. Senior counselor Roger Schroeder was sponsor.

The traditional balloon-popping ceremony was carried out at midnight. Each attending student then received a brand-new, 1979 penny.

To Rome—With Latin Club

One of the most spectacular events that the Latin Club participated in was the trip to Italy. It took $750, $350 came from selling candy, cheese, and sausage. The rest of the expenses were paid by the parents of the students. The total of the expense was more than $1000.

The students who went were Mike Scott, Steve Barnes, Mark Pauley, Glenna Bowers and Linda Brooks. Miss Helen Bailey sponsored the students.

The first city visited was Rome. During the four days at Rome, the students visited some ruins of Tivoli. Within the next four days they toured Naples, Pompeii, Sorrento, and the beautiful Island of Capri.

Students got pleasure from the different types of transportation that was available to them. When they left Indianapolis, a plane took them to New York. After their four-day stay in Rome, a train transported them to Naples. Another pleasurable way of transportation was a boat, which transported them from Sorrento to Capri.

With the help of Miss Bailey's fluency of the Latin language, she was able to communicate with the Italians which made the trip more informative and comfortable.

The beautiful fountains of Rome are sights to be remembered. The Spanish Steps, The Coliseum and Italian islands were toured.

These are five of the six lucky people that visited Italy with the Latin Club sponsored by Miss Helen Bailey.

St. Louis—Bird's Eye View

What's so interesting about St. Louis? Well just ask any history club member and you will get your answer.

Thirty three members of the history club visited St. Louis May third through the fifth. They all sold candy to help cut expenses. The sponsor of the outing was Mr. John Allen. Miss Janet Eherle and Miss Marvolene Nicholson chaperoned.

The history clubbers did everything from swimming in a pool to talking to Indians at a museum.

They also went to the top of the Arch, "which was pretty scary" explained one history clubber. They visited the animals at the St. Louis zoo. The exciting trip ended Saturday after an exhausting day at Six Flags.

by Julie Mittman and Linda Moore

Along with going to Six Flags the History Club visited the Jefferson National Expansion Memorial which represents the gateway to the west.

There they are together—"The History Clubber Huggers" on their way to St. Louis with sponsor John Allen. The trip featured the pioneer gateway.

Seeing wildlife such as this alligator is the main objective of the zoology students on their Okeefe-nokee trip.

The Smokey Mountains at sunset is certainly a beautiful sight to see; especially, when you sleep under the stars.

Captain Lisa Hayse leads her crew through the eerie 'Fenokee Swamp. Lisa was president of the Naturalist's.

Classroom Applies to Real Life

"Look at the size of that 'gator!" yells Jamie Fish. "It's coming toward us!" screamed one of the girls.

Actually, according to the Okeefe-nokee Park guide, "they're more frightened of you." Seeing the wildlife in the Okee swamp is a major reason Marshall's zoology students take this trip each spring.

Going down on the train is almost as much fun as the swamp trek. Adding to their life bird list and identifying trees, shrubs and flowers reinforce their classroom work.

The Smokey Mountains trip has as its primary goal, new specimens for Botany students. "It's always a fifty-fifty chance that we'll be hiking in a snow storm," says Mr. David Otto. The students actually camp in primitive cabins and get to practice pioneer skills.

Both of these trips are only part of the outdoor lab work offered by the science department as it continually tries to get student's theoretical classroom work matched with real-life experiences. This is the opportunity for all those assignments about leaves, insects and birds to be used.

In spite of the sunburns and other inconveniences, these trips are great because of the opportunity for many students to be independent and have fun with their peers.

Birds such as this Barred Owl are seen on trips which help the students add to their life bird list.

Here the hikers are ready to go hike down the Smokeys. The botany students look for different specimens to bring back and study.

Humanities in Never Land

On August 2, the summer school Humanities class performed the musical Peter Pan. Under the direction of Cynthia Featheringill and Janet Eberle, the class worked about four weeks on the play itself and about four weeks on the theater in general. Although the major goal of the class is to put on the musical, it also helps the students to learn the basics of theater. It teaches a little about acting, music, and the technical aspects of a production.

The cast of "Peter Pan" had hoped to perform the musical again in September, but due to the teacher's strike, plans were changed.

"Peter Pan" is not the first summer musical that Marshall has produced. Last summer the Humanities class put on "You're A Good Man Charlie Brown". "Charlie Brown" was put on twice once in early August, and again in early September. The musical for next year has not been decided, and probably won't be until the class starts in June. The play depends on the size of the cast available. If the cast is large, then the play will probably be a children's play. If the cast is small then the play could possibly be the musical "Fantastiks".

Marshall Law in Sports

Athletically, Marshall did very well this year and made the Patriots proud of them. The athletic department gives Marshall students a wide variety to choose from in activities. It gives the jocks good experience so someday, some of them may even turn professional. The sporting events are not only good for the athletes, they are good for the other students as well. It gives the students a place to unwind. A chance to work off the tensions and hassles of everyday life.

The girls basketball team improved greatly over last year's team. Coach John Allen helped the team a lot, too.

Top Rated Triple A Pats

The Varsity Football season ended with a crowd and a bang as the Patriots rolled over Roncalli 25-0 to complete an 8-2 record. The one time top-ten-rated triple A team was coached by Ed Bopp, Lenny Brickens, John Veza, and Bill Baugh. Pat Bonfils was the trainer.

Head Coach Bopp stated, "Our best game offensively was Lawrence North because we had our offense moving and scored the most points. Defensively it would be Lawrence Central since we held them for the least points."

The team started out slowly and boomed into a great year. Many new players were introduced as the team's spirit complimented veteran. Seniors were Keith Jones, with a career of ten 100-yard rushing games, and a career 2,665; Jerry Hawkins, Jonathon Scott, Jim White, Matt Schlimgen, Stephan Williams, Aaron Pate, Mark and Mike Jarosinski, Randy Langford, and Paul Houston. Juniors were Bill Wolf, William Yarbrough, Tony Allen, and Tony Washington displayed varied talents. Outstanding sophomores Steve Miller and Gerald Lewis proved themselves varsity material. Tight end Lewis caught well from Miller, the quarterback.

A high caliber defense shut out four teams, Lawrence Central, Howe, Cathedral and Roncalli to prove Pats are always tough. Eighteen interceptions replaced the old record for total team interceptions. Stephan Williams led in these with six for the season. The defense held opponents with up to 69 opposing points, a new record. William Yarbrough led tackles followed by Jonathon Scott.

Many seniors left the team and will greatly be missed, but the Patriot spirit will rise again to face next season with renewed strength according to coaches.

McCall Gets To State Meet

Despite getting off to a slow start Coach Life and Coach Porter instructed the grapplers to a 9-6-1 finish. Marshall's only tie came in the last match of the season against Chatard.

This year the wrestling team consisted of only six seniors, one junior and six sophomores. Keith Jones, 165; Randy Lanford 155; Rick Fenter, 98; Jeff Shriver, 126; Nick Tuttle, 145; and Paul Houston, 177, were the only seniors on the clubs roster. The sophomores included Steve Shriver, 105; Larry Hall, 112; Mark Beard, 119; Rich Gentry, 132; Eli Garza, 185, and heavy-weight Bryant Ingram. The only junior was Jimmy McCall, 135, who also went all the way to the state tourney.

The Pats were fifth in the city tourney, just being edged out of fourth. Individually four grapplers finished third. They were seniors Randy Langford with a record of 14-2; Keith Jones, 14-2; and Paul Houston, 13-3. One sophomore also contributed, Larry Hall, 11-5.

Next year will really be a rebuilding season having six returning sophomores and one returning junior.

This is the start of the wrestling match. Wrestlers try to escape to gain points.

In wrestling this hold is a very strategic one. No one has the advantage here.

Good advice is given by Coach Tremain during a critical moment. Down by several runs, the Pats came back to win in extra innings.

That's Greg Agee in the middle of that dust cloud! Several bad throws by opponents meant Pat runs.

Scoring another one for the red, white, and blue is Chris Pritchett, Patriot pitcher.

Tremain Leaves, Spirit Goes On

The enthusiasm and spirit of the students as well as the varsity baseball team led Marshall to a 22-4 record going all the way to semi-state before being stopped by the Belmont Braves. They finished in the top six. Coached by Bob Tremain, David Clapp, and Brad Goffinett, the team held a 310 batting average.

Great pitching, which won many games, could be attributed to three players—Brent Van Duyn, south paw, Chris Pritchett, senior hurler, and Steve Hicks, the number one relief pitcher in the state. Hicks was voted most valuable player for most games saved with a .049 earned run average.

"There were a lot of tough and well played games. The regionals championship with Greenfield Central was one," said David Clapp. In that game VanDuyn pitched a two hitter. Robert Davids led batting with a .432 average. He and Jim Ackerman were the lead in base stealers.

Seniors Steve Hicks, Chris Pritchett, Greg Agee and Paul Huston have graduated from the team, as has Coach Bob Tremain who left after six great years. He went to Indiana Central University as head coach of the baseball team there. All of these team members will be missed.

Pats Improve Record

Talent was evenly distributed on the varsity basketball team as they slam-dunked their way to an improved record of 9-11. Coach Roger Schroder stated, "We have more ability this year, basically more talent."

There wasn't a "number one" or totally outstanding player, but the team did have its prominent players as seen in the athletic qualities of Eric McKay, Mike Arnold and Gerald Lewis. McKay ran up a 20-point game average and snagged 36 rebounds by the ninth game of the season, while Arnold held the lead in steals and assists at nine and 20.

The team next year will be soundly anchored by veterans McKay and Lewis.

Girls Just Miss Sectional Victory

The girls basketball team had a very exciting season. Monique Carter, Wendy Wallace, and Lori McFarland all scored an average of eighteen points per game. The varsity record was seven wins and nine losses before the sectional. The J.V. team won ten of fourteen season games despite losing sixteen players to bad grades and varsity. Besides the three seniors Beth Lutocka, Lori McFarland, and Kathy Deer, Coach John Allen will plan to see all the other players next season. Although the girls didn't have a team captain, if someone had to take responsibility, it was usually Beth Lutocka.

When Coach Allen was asked how he liked being coach, he replied he really enjoyed it. There were many rewards for him—mainly to see the team improve through hard work and teamwork. Mr. Allen feels the team should be complimented on working to correct or compensate for weakness and using their strengths to the best of their ability. Coach Allen feels the 1980's will be rewarding for the girls if they continue to work as a team. Allen feels they will have excellent teams for the next several seasons.

Those among the top players were seniors Kristy Deer, Beth Lutocka, and Lori McFarland. Juniors Monique Carter and Wendy Wallace, sophomores Lori Rogers and Kenya Willis, freshmen Gina Bunch and Traci Whiles also played varsity.

When Kenya Willis was asked how she feels being one of the top players, she stated she would do her best to do anything she could to continue the girls' outstanding record. All the girls feel that it's very rewarding and but they couldn't have made it without their outstanding coach, John Allen.

They were the runner-up in the 1979-1980 sectional. They beat Arlington 53-51 and Cathedral 56-49, but lost to Warren Central 45-49 in the final game.

Track Rates Banner Year

It was a banner year for the boy's track team. The Patriots had an 8-4-1 record and were briefly rated eighteenth in the state. The team placed second in the sectionals and fifth in the city, respectively. "The top four scorers in dual competition," stated coach Butch Mozingo, "were Robin Johnson, Rudy Williams, Tony Washington and Punchy Blackman."

The second place finish in the sectionals was a complete team effort as the team showed balance and determination. First place finishers for Marshall were Johnson (220) and the 880 relay team (Chris Withers, Blackman, Kevin Vardiman, Johnson). Blackman (220) and Williams (high jump) both finished second in their events. Washington (low hurdles) and the mile relay team (Ernest Muse, Blackman, Vardiman, Johnson) finished third. Withers (100), Tom Murphy (low hurdles), Ricky Wilson (220), Ed Kett (pole vault) and Randy Burch (long jump) finished close behind to give the Patriots valuable points.

Johnson set three school records, individually, and was on both relay teams who also set school records. Johnson ran the 100 in 9.8 on three different occasions and was voted outstanding trackster in Marion County by The Indianapolis News for the week of April 8. In the 220 (21.8) and 440 (49.5) Johnson had the quickest time in the school's twelve-year history. The mile relay team (Blackman, Muse, Vardiman, Johnson) ran a 3:24.3 for school records and the 880 team had the fastest time in the city. Williams captured the high hurdles record with a 14.9.

In the Regionals at Kokomo, Marshall finished fourth with three runners and the 880-relay team qualifying for state competition. Johnson ran the 220 in 21.8 to set a regional record.

Pat Girls Win Chatard Relay

Monique Carter was the outstanding performer on the girls track team. She won the 220 yard dash in the state meet and placed third in the 100 yard dash.

Carter, along with Beverly Bryant, Varinia Nevilles and Brenda Cody placed third in the sectionals and also in the city for the 880 relay.

More Points Per Meet

Coach William "Bill" Rosenstihl thinks this year's swim team achieved more points per meet than last.

Last year's swim team only had six swimmers; this year there are five additional swimmers. The five additional swimmers helped the depth of the team.

Lynne Riley and Shelly Rosenstihl represented Marshall in the sectionals. The girls found it a big challenge.

This year's team consisted of juniors Cindy Diehl, Liane Holder, Debbie Lowe, Lynne Riley, Marty Stoe and Shelly Rosenstihl; sophomores Laura Disser, Sheri Novotny; freshmen Lisa Burcham, Sheila Hill and Laura Prunty.

Swimmers participated in 50-100 yard 500 freestyle, 100 butterfly, 100 backstroke, 100 breast stroke, diving and 200 individual medley.

Runners' Lower Times

Many new faces decorated the scene as the Patriot's Cross Country closed the season with a 6-7 record. Coached by "Butch" Mozingo, the team had great success and lowered individual and overall times considerably.

Led by Randy Williams, the team's number one runner, the varsity ran to victory on many occasions. Randy was followed closely by Marty Mulcahy most of the season. Marty is a second-year varsity man and finished second man for the season.

First year runners Kenny Wood and James Fields surprised much of the team as they ran third and fourth man most of the season. Many veteran runners from other schools were astonished at these runners performances.

Seniors on the team consisted of Mike Mulcahy, Brian Glotfelty, Ernest Nichols, and Milo Twigg. Mulcahy was a fine leader for the team and added to the team spirit. Brian Glotfelty was team captain, however, injuries kept Brian from playing to his full potential. Ernest Nichols and Milo Twigg gave much needed support to the team. All these senior runners will be missed.

Near the end of the season the fifth, sixth, and seventh runners became quite competitive. Battling for the positions were juniors Mike Schilling and Kenny Connors, and sophomores Mark Opel, Dave Mogollon, Charles Bayless and Mark McCoy. This made up the reserve team. The reserve had a successful finish in the city coming in second.

Freshmen came in a strong second in the city led by Mike Martin and Joe Jacobs. Joe Jarosinski, Mike Nichols, Cameron Irwin and Ryan Wells all gave great support to the freshmen squad.

Golfers Go Co-Ed

The Golf team gave it a good try last year with a 2-13 record.

The team competed in the Indianapolis Invitational Golf Tournament with fourteen other schools and placed sixth.

The team also competed in the Arlington Invitational and placed fourth with a score of 347 at which Jay Burleson scored a high 85 for our team.

Marshall also hosted the Marshall Invitionals and placed ninth with a score of 394.

The team included Kent Von Burg, Jay Burleson, Dennis Roberts, Mike Kidwell, Matt Schlimgen, Rick Fenter, Richard Marsh and Diane Fisher.

Coach David Smartz had a young team who "worked hard to improve." Several of the matches were close.

Girls Work to Improve

The girls varsity volleyball team had nine wins and seven losses.

"We are a young and inexperienced team," stated Miss Barbara Guhl, the Patriots new volleyball coach. "But," she added, "We are working very hard to improve our skills."

The girls volleyball team came on strong and beat some tough teams to start off the season. During the tournament, though, the girls had some emotional problems. The coach felt that had something to do with the losses.

There are some very promising talents on the reserve team. That, combined with the varsity players left from this year, should provide a nucleus for a good team.

Goffinet's Baugh Girls defeat the Beauties

The annual Powder-Pull football game we played on a cold, damp Sullivan Field as the Bonfils Beauties and the Goffinet-Baugh Girls battled for victory. The Baugh-girls made it a last second defeat for the Beauties. The enthusiastic crowd cheered on their teams. The battle of the two teams made the evening exciting as well as captivating.

The game started with the coaches and their teams huddled to go over last minute plays and make the night a memorable one. The Goffinet-Baugh girls started the kick-off with a tremendous tackle by the Bonfils Beauties. Monique (knee-deep) Casky made the first touch down for the Bonfils Beauties which was later followed by Jill Novotony of the Goffinet-Baugh girls. The game may have had feminine points, but the game had a lot of rough play and hard defense against the other team.

Even if the game seemed to be fun, the coaches felt that the name was "fun" but to play the game took hard work, skills, and talent from both teams. The game was to be played "fair but firm." Each team's objective was to win and to have fun while playing. The girls all felt the game was educational towards sports and encouraged next year's senior girls to give it a try. Coach

Bonfils commented, "I was impressed with my team's results. I also felt that I would rather lose a game than have two teams ending in a tie."

Let us not forget the highlights of the game—the cheerleaders. The she/he cheerleaders cheered their team towards victory with every breath of song. Wes Gainey, captain of the Bonfils Beauties, commented, "I love the experience of being a cheerleader except the continuous drafts up my skirt when I made a broad jump." Tony (Brickhouse) Black, captain of the Goffinet-Baugh girls, replied, "I enjoyed myself but I seemed to have suffered a couple of runs in my stockings along the way."

Senior Dianne Swineford runs for a touchdown as the Bonfils Beauties go for a tackle; however the Baugh Girls defeated them in the last ten seconds.

Inexperience, Major Downfall

The girls' tennis team finished seventh in the city under the coaching of Linda James. Their final record for the season was 5-8. Dawn Forbis, Lori Rogers, and Pam Pinner proved to be the three top players of the season, leading the team to their five wins.

Other players included Renee Lacy, Michelle Price, Julie Murphy, Queena Howard, and Cassandra Shelton on the varsity team. The reserve players were Kathy Turner, Laura Jordan, and Diane Johnson.

Inexperience of city playing was the major downfall of the team, but Coach

James is optimistic about the upcoming season. All of the players but two are returning this year. Renee Lacy and Michelle Price were lost to graduation. Practice over the summer has improved the players, as have tennis lessons.

Pam Pinner, senior, predicts the team will finish as third runner-up, while Coach James predicts city runner-up. "I think we'll do much better. Last year the players were scared and we really bombed out. This year they have more experience and they're ready."

Meanwhile, their male counterparts finished out with a 10-3 season this year. They came out second in the city. Coach John Eason felt the reason that the team didn't achieve "Number One" was because they lacked depth.

Despite losses to Cathedral, Mount Vernon, and Lawrence North, the returning lettermen Darryl Whitley, were seeded number one single, Todd VanDyn, number one single, Stacey Anderson, number one doubles, and Mark and Ed Russell all will return.

Jeff Opel and Brent Van Duyn will be greatly missed.

Personalities Promote Spirit

As Patriot Personalities, seniors Kim Hall and Chip Jacobs helped promote school spirit throughout the year. At all home games, the two could be seen, dressed in their Patriot uniforms cheering on the basketball and football teams. They also attended PATS meetings, helped film the orientation film, spoke at the freshman mixer, and marched in the Veteran's Day Parade.

Nominees for Patriot Personalities were turned into Roger Schroder by faculty members at the end of 1979. Each nominee was interviewed by selected faculty members, senior class officers, and Dwayne Doles and Sharon Turner, the 1978-79 Patriot Personalities.

Chip and Kim enjoyed being Patriot Personalities this year. Kim Hall summed up both their feelings when she said, "It gave me the opportunity to express my enthusiasm and support for Marshall."

MARSHALL LAW in Academics

Advancement has always been a big part of the American way of life. High Schools are also a part of this advancement, especially in their academics curriculum.

Since there has been a greater demand for a higher education, high schools have been expanding the fields of classes offered. John Marshall has taken a large step forward in this direction. Marshall has its students interested and involved in many aspects of science and mathematics, two fields usually dreaded by most students. "Marshall Law" takes pride in its academic excellence.

Summer School attracts 900

900 and more students reported to school every morning for summer classes.

New classes offered this year were journalism and the senior class preparation for the SAT test.

The most popular class taken was Drivers Education. "It's a wonderful feeling knowing you will be getting your license with in the year," is a comment made by many students.

Summer school is a useful tool but is recommended for the following purposes: familiarizing freshmen to the building, to repeat failed classes, to take electives that can't be scheduled, and to take the SAT class for college-bound

College-bound students had an advantage this summer by taking the SAT preparatory class. Marshall offered this class which was team taught.

Techniques used in this class were practice exams, vocabulary building, and mini-math lessons. When asked if he would recommend this class to college bound students, Dave Roberts commented, "By all means! It's a good review before the SAT test which is required by most colleges."

Night School Enrollment Up

ohn Marshall's Adult Evening School is attracting more drop out students than ever. Students which once had quit are coming back for the wide variety of credit classes that are offered Monday through Thursday. All the classes can be accredited to high school completion, salable skills, or personal interest.

Clifford Snyder reports that the driver education is drawing the biggest attendance and has a waiting list. The adult school is growing with real estate sale classes.

Walking around the night school area, you may see just a little more than your normal student—housewives, blue collar workers and businessmen are all going back to school for one reason or another. Night school is a good place to be whether pursuing a diploma or hobby.

Intensive study and ambition are qualities found in the night school student.

Many students found night school was a great advantage for those with jobs and other daytime responsibilities.

Librarians 'Super Staff'

Finding certain material in a library sometimes presents a problem. We Patriots though, are lucky to have two very capable librarians, Mrs. Virginia McDonald and Mrs. Rebecca Hertz. Both are always more than willing to assist any student. This fall 250 new books were purchased, along with 1600 new paperbacks. An order is in for additional paperbacks for the reading enjoyment of the students.

On the library staff along with McDonald and Hertz are Paul Justice, Mrs. Judy Fee and Mrs. Fran Jacobs. They work together to try and round up approximately 2000 students so pictures could be taken of smiling faces for the I.D. cards. Mrs. Fee oversees the viewing room while Jacobs takes care of the charge desk. Justice is the AV man.

"We think that our library compares favorably with other high school libraries as far as size and capabilities go," stated McDonald. She also added that she thought the library staff was "super." All work together very hard to make our own I.M.C. the success it is.

Conversation Important

Marshall's Foreign Language Department is one of the best in the city and is headed by Ruth Nelson. The department claims Spanish is the class most people enrolled in. Communication, speaking, reading and writing—all are stressed in each class whether it be French, Spanish, German or Latin. Nelson also said culture and customs of the countries are also taught.

Some classes have been known to study unusual things such as folk-dancing, poetry, cooking, and drama because these are things not required but thoroughly enjoyed. The department also received a new teacher this year, Mrs. Jane Meranda, who is replacing Ms. Bailey in Latin. She is also at Howe High School part-time. A Russian course was to be offered but it was dropped when student enrollment and teacher time decreased this fall. Nelson also said all Foreign language teachers at school are willing to work with their students to help them update and to learn the expected skills.

Senior David Clapp feels a large part of foreign language entails many quizzes. They are given almost daily to each of his classes.

German class study time is often a personal study time as some students demonstrate here as they take time out for other homework and gathering their thoughts.

Kevin Fields listens intently to a class lecture and takes time to jot down a few important notes in his foreign language class.

Basics Plus Many Electives

“The English Department recognizes the need for a good basic background in English; therefore, it makes every effort to cover all of the so-called basics,” explains Dr. James Gaither. With such classes as Mark Twain and Folklore that alternate Spring and Fall semesters, the student gets a wider variety of phase elective courses. The English Department plans to restructure some of its phase electives, and add some that might be more meaningful. For example, Dr. Gaither would like to see Indiana Culture brought to the English Department in the future; but, phase electives are limited due to the lack of rooms, teachers, and students.

All freshmen and sophomores are required to take basic English courses. The English department encourages all students to take as many English courses and “urges variety in courses.”

Computers Expand Classes Offered

Mathematics is not just an average required two credits. It has become one of the most interesting and rewarding courses of study offered to students.

Over the past few semesters the Math Department has had an increasing interest taken by students in the Computer Math classes. Among the challenging concepts of mathematics taught in Computer Math, students wrote and "debugged" various programs which were sometimes used to tutor Basic and General Math students. These programs were often written by Advanced Computer Math students. Much enthusiasm was shown by Department Head Robert Carr, Computer Math teacher Dave Roberts, as well as the rest of the department teachers, in prompting students' interest in this field of mathematics. Their enthusiasm has been justified also because of the new locker-distribution system that was put into successful effect this year with the help of their computer equipment and students.

Last spring's annual Marion County Math Day resulted with many of our students going home with awards as high as second place. Winners were as follows: beginning Algebra: Kristie Hutzler, 8th place, Jane Riley, 19th place; Geometry: Judi Brezaussek, 15th place; Comp. Math: Toni Petrucciani, 2nd place, James Coons, 4th place, and Brian Stewart, 6th place.

The annual St. Mary-of-the-Woods/Rose-Hulman Math Contest had representatives of John Marshall attending. These 1979 contestants included:

Besides getting students involved with mathematics by offering interesting classes and contests, the Math Department also had as many as three or four booths entered in Marshall's Family Fun Night festivities.

Our high school has had many academic and activity achievements accredited to it, it's Math Department has proved to be one of them.

Pats Discover New Respect

The Social Studies Department is headed by Dwight Shaw.

Mr. Shaw explained that the main purpose for social studies is to develop good citizenship and respect for one's country. Mr. Shaw believes that government and economic classes increase student's political awareness and help them to understand problems.

U.S. History is the most popular with students, Mr. Shaw related. It is a problem, however, to find material that is interesting to both the student and teacher.

History is a class that can benefit all students if they will take an interest.

Economics students study the stock market and learn the hard truths about inflation. World History students examine such problems as Iran and the Russian invasion of Afghanistan.

Biology Popular?

This year's Science Department kept biology students busy by having them collect leaves the first semester. Bird watching and dissecting kept the students occupied the second semester. Biology is required for all sophomores so it was one of the most "popular" classes.

The Zoology students took many trips. The big trip they take every year is over spring break to Okefenokee. Some of the other trips are to the Smokey Mountains and Fall Creek.

Norma Dillion is head of the ten-teacher department which offered many exciting classes this year. Added to the list of classes for the first time was Astronomy. Some of the regular classes were Chemistry, Earth Science and Zoology, plus many more. If you like science and taking trips, you would enjoy a Science class.

Senior Brent VanDuyn is all wrapped up in his zoology class. Zoology students study and dissect various animal species.

Senior Barbie Mobley along with her lab assistant finds labwork very much a part of Chemistry.

Although Earth Science students have a few labs, most of their work is based on classroom studies and notes.

ROTC

Promotes Leadership

Did war break out at John Marshall? This thought may have run through some peoples' minds every Thursday as they saw many students walking in the hall in military uniforms. But there was no cause for alarm because these students were simply members of ROTC.

The uniforms were worn for neatness, according to Sergeant William Pennington. ROTC is a course which promotes leadership and neatness. The main objective of ROTC is to give leadership, not the Army. "I'd rather see them go to college than to the Army."

Participating in several contests, many students involved in ROTC received awards for inspection, athletics, Colorguard, Civic activities and student council.

The ROTC students participated in a national physical fitness program earlier in the year. The rifle and drill team also entered competition and mailed their team and individual scores in for evaluation.

One More Time Around the Gym!

Everyone takes part in Marshall's well rounded P.E. program. With enough variety such as the track and fielding events, every athletic ability is covered.

"Even if they don't work, they're encouraged to dress for points," states Martha Griffin, girls P.E. teacher and cheerleading coach.

Gym is made to be fun, though some students often hate gym class because their stronger peers put the weaker ones down. For the most part students enjoyed gym and even look forward to the period they had it.

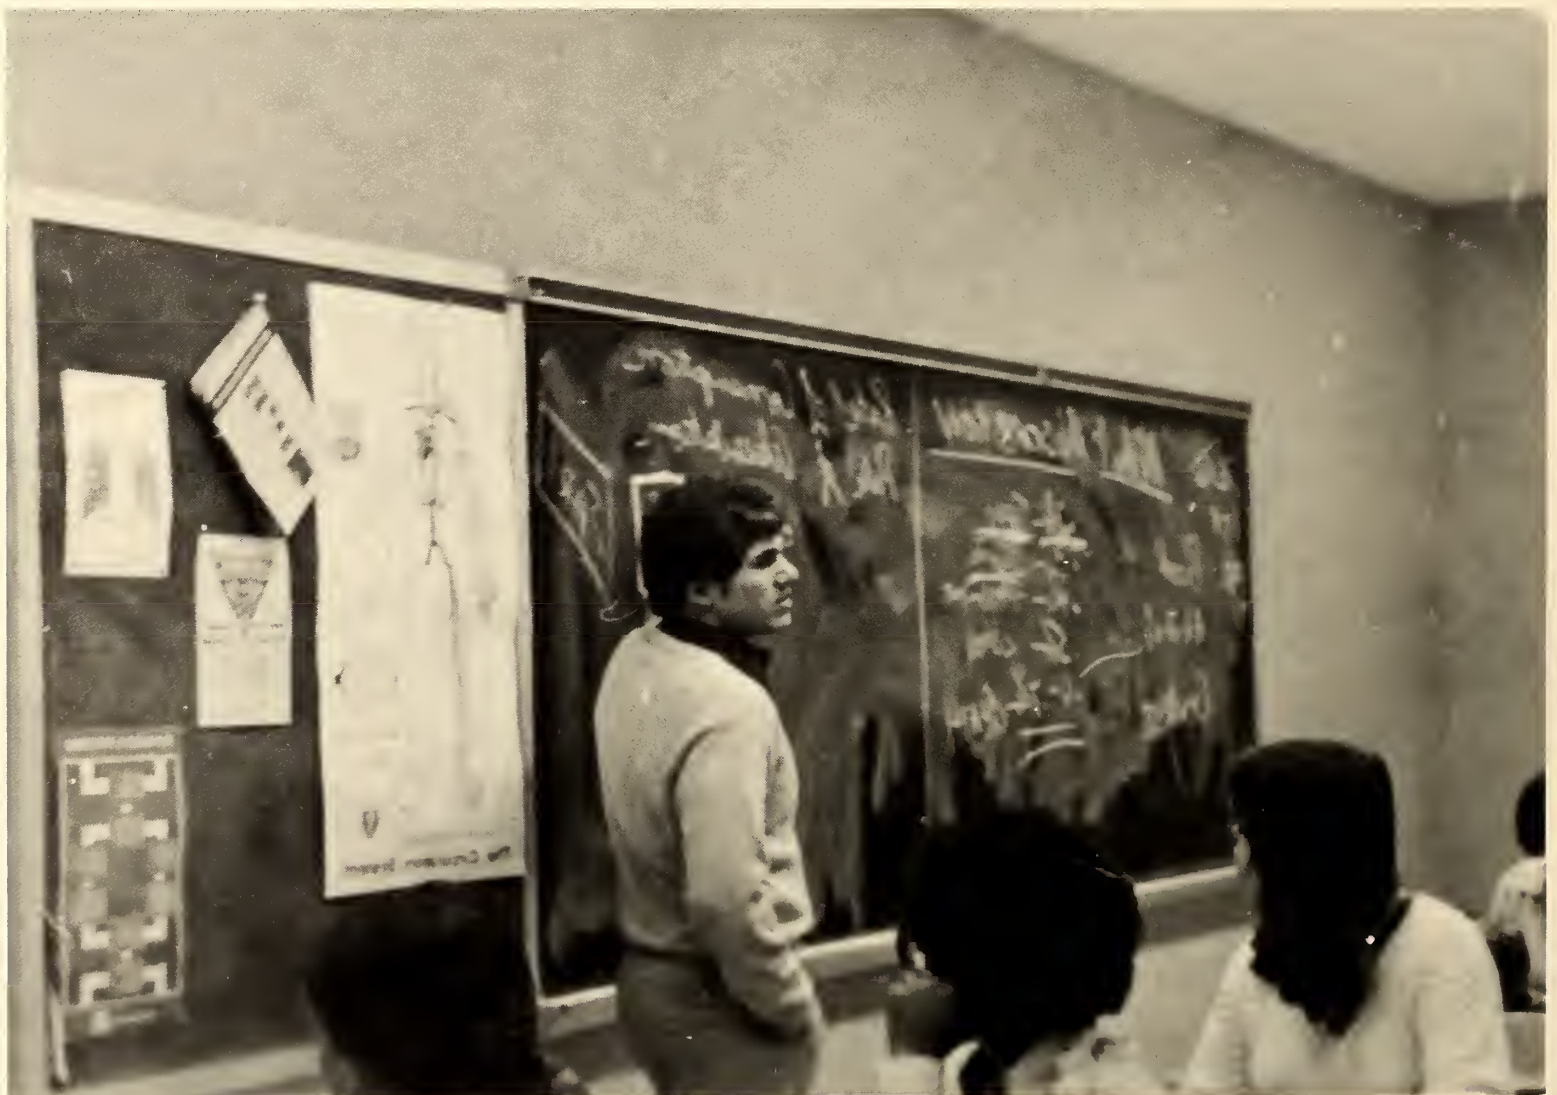

To give the students the basics of mental illness, alcohol, emotions, body parts, and drugs were the main objectives in the one-semester required course of health.

Brad Goffinet who has been teaching for five years says there were about 170 students enrolled in Health. He also said that his goals for the students were to try to teach them to learn as much as possible about themselves and the environment around them.

In health the assignments were mainly on health articles from newspapers due every week and a four page essay was required at the end of the second six-week period.

35 Youngmen become homemakers

Home Economics which consists of foods and clothing classes has improved over the last two semesters. Apparently more and more young men are involved in the foods classes. Last year there were 1007 female students in school and 35% of those were enrolled in one of the classes. There were 1005 males but there were only 35 enrolled in the classes. The department is encouraging more young men to take up the class. The foods program has been offered for six years. The main purpose of the classes is to get students to major in certain fields. Skills as well as talents are developed. Clothing students used their skills to do many service projects for school activities and for staff members—athletic department, school musicals and projects for individual staff members. Also, clothing and textiles students received awards for their achievements at the County-wide Fashion Show. Mrs. Marilyn Johannessen comments that it's a recent development that young persons want to learn sewing and cooking crafts again.

Meet the Fourth Estate

As students and faculty passed by room 236 and saw a mass of students making a path in and out of the door, they probably thought that they were studying "advanced restroom". Just to clear all thoughts of that nature, they were actually doing their assignments.

In order to put out a well-done publication, staff members of the newspaper, The Liberator and the school's yearbook, the Marhiscan, must go behind the scenes to get the information needed.

The Marhiscan staff, headed by co-editors Pam Lloyd and Kathy Weir, consisted of able-bodied writers, typists, artists and photographers.

From the end of last year all the way through February, these staffers worked long, hard hours to publish the yearbook.

Jeff Opel and Dorria Ball acted as a great team leading the Liberator staff in writing excellent news, features, editorials, and sports stories. They also found out what hard work it was to meet deadlines on a bi-monthly publication.

Heading up this class of mass confusion was Janet Eberle. She played back-up to both of the publications to insure smoothness of stories and layouts. She also kept the second period "animals" in line. "We couldn't have done it without her," stated editor Kathy Weir.

Stephanie Jones, New Bureau Editor, makes sure Pats are known city-wide. It's not an easy job.

Creativity is the Key

Although a steady hand and good technical quality are important factors in art, they are not the most important. The main quality expected of a successful artist is creativity.

Students who enrolled in art classes for an "easy credit" were probably somewhat surprised. Diligence, imagination, and outstanding artwork were among the standards set by the art department.

Some of the classes offered in the art department were Craft Design and Basic Art for freshmen; Photography, Ceramics, Textiles and Advanced Art for upperclassmen. For those students maintaining a "B" average in art, Commercial Art classes were available.

The "500 Festival" and "The National Scholastics Art Competition" along with Marshall's own "Festival of the Arts" were just some of the contests art students entered throughout the year.

Many students who participated in these art contests received awards for their creative efforts. And many were rewarded by the mere fact that they were able to express themselves through their artwork, thus proving that to become successful in art, creativity is the key.

Students Take Pride In Work

Industrial Arts has always been a popular course in the curriculum at John Marshall High School.

Department Head Robert Chisley stated, "Marshall gives the basics, preparing the students for the Career Center at Tech."

The curriculum this year includes printing, power mechanics, woodshop, metal shop, drafting, auto body, welding, and electronics.

Like last year the classes are about evenly distributed. Most of the students involved in Industrial Arts are there either to learn a trade or just to have fun and take pride in their work

Mystery Comes to Marshall

The spiral staircase" offered an excellent opportunity for amateur sleuths to try their hand at figuring out the mystery. In October, Director Jerry Hurst was beginning to look forward to an exciting performance. He was excited about his cast, and the material he was working with.

Mr. Hurst summed up the effectiveness of the play, "It's a good mystery." Nothing is revealed or solved until the last minutes of the play. The play holds a number of shocking moments for the audience along with several surprises. "I think the audience will respond very well."

Mr. Hurst was also pleased with his cast. Priscilla Erickson, Brian Martin, Chip Jacobs, Jennifer Chapman, Mike Mulcahy, Donna Chalupa, Julie Murphy, and Bill Stineman made up the small cast. Acting as assistant director, "Gopher", and the operator's voice was Melissa McGillum. The cast was experienced and enthusiastic. They were convinced even before the show that the play would be a success.

"The Spiral Staircase" was based on murders which took place in a small New England town. Young women with physical defects fell victim to the murderer's plot.

Only the last few scenes in the play allow the audience to discover the murderer is Professor Warren, played by Chip Jacobs. Warren discovers he is alone with Helen, a mute girl played by Jennifer Chapman. He quickly plots a murder. As Warren chases down Helen, his stepmother, Julie Murphy, sneaks in and shoots Warren. Mrs. Warren has feigned paralysis throughout the play and explains to Helen that it was to keep her eye on her stepson to obtain proof.

After explaining her motives for murdering Warren, Mrs. Warren dies of a heart attack. Helen discovers she can speak. "The Spiral Staircase" ended in shock and surprise as Mr. Hurst had promised.

Micro-computer To be Added

The Business Department at Marshall offers a variety of clerical, and merchandising training programs. COE is a clerical training program, which is only offered to seniors. The COE program will place a student in a part-time job for which they will get credits and a salary. DE is another program similar to COE, except that it deals with merchandising.

Typing is still the most popular business course offered. Many students found it very beneficial to take this class.

This spring the new micro-computer was put to use. The computer will not only be used for business classes, but also for the other departments. Students will be trained to operate the new computer which will be a great asset to their education.

Mike Hutzler studies this problem very thoroughly, so he will get a good grade in accounting.

Adding machines help students during accounting and bookkeeping class.

Practice makes perfect, especially in typing. The business department allows students to practice after school.

Debbie Plummer works this problem out using her new skills.

Marshall Law in Activities

The activities at Marshall are really something that the Patriots can be proud of. Anything from music to cheerleading gives the students something else to do. Something different from hum-drum of everyday school life is there for everyone here at Marshall. Every activity that goes on here can be fun, worthwhile, and a benefit to all.

Patriot Baton Twirler Mary Miller performed well at M.S.A. during half time action against Franklin Central in the Sectionals.

Sponsoring the Key Club, David Otto displays the banner of the club.

Ron King and Randy Smith seem to be holding matmaid Celest Moore in a cheerleader pose mat butlers. The butlers were a Marshall first.

Fully expressing their spirit in the school, the band blows another emotion tune.

Patriots On Parade was the 'Main Event'

Patriots on Parade, the all school talent show, was a huge success despite fears of having to cancel the show, which was the 13th annual, because of setting the show back one month.

The show featured performances by Marshall's top vocal ensembles. The Liberty Bells, Marshall's all-female ensemble, performed a song "Celebrate" by the Three Dog Nite, the Sons of Liberty, the all-male ensemble, performed a musical comedy skit as they sang "Officer Krumpke" a song from the award-winning Broadway musical "West Side Story". The Marshallaires, Marshall's mixed ensemble, performed a song from the movie "The Wiz".

Jennifer Chapman and Chip Jacobs both sang contemporary songs which received great applause. The program also was laced together by well done comedy skits, the most memorable of which was about Noah and the Lord and their fight to build an arc.

Two dance numbers, were in the show. One was performed by Paula Burleson and Cindy Cotrell, who danced with a jazzy disco style to Bob Seger's hit song "Old Time Rock-n-Roll", and another number which had sophomore Charles Montgomery dancing to "Don't Stop Til You Get Enough" by Michael Jackson.

Jennifer Chapman, who opened the show with her rendition of the "Theme from the Main Event", a performance that may well have put Barbara to shame, will be missed by producers Jan

Eberle and Cynthia Featheringill since she performed in, or was part of four acts. The show also featured two firsts—a flute performance and a foot-stomping harmonica player. In all the show was enjoyed by all who paid the mere $1.50 to witness these young but talented performers.

Paul Justice and his stage crew headed by student manager Randy Smith built colorful blocks for the set. Lighting the sign and re-building the runway test the crew's electronic talents. Nearly 30 students were involved in the back stage effort to produce the show.

"How long can you tread water?" The Noah skit that had the audience in hysteria would have won the comedy award during Patriots on Parade.

One of the more touching moments during Patriots on Parade was the duet by Seniors, Jennifer Chapman and Chip Jacobs singing "Hear The Band".

Senior Jane Kerr's first appearance on Patriots on Parade had her playing and singing "Time". This song was written for her by her sister.

One of the more unusual talents proved to be the ability to play the harmonica. Freshman Kevin Hudson had the audience clapping along.

Back again playing the knee was Bob Gray. Bob has appeared many times in singing and comedy acts in Patriots on Parade.

Band Had to Catch Up

Orchestra director Raymond Brandes felt that the main concern this year was to catch up on the work that was missed by the band and the orchestra because of the strike.

The Orchestra was busy with special productions as well as Christmas programs as in the past years. Also among new programs was the electronic piano laboratory introduced this year. The piano laboratory is influential in teaching.

When asked about outstanding students, Brandes stated, "We have many strong freshmen this year who look like they will go far."

Robert Meurer, this year's band director, led the marching band to win a second division rating while competing in the district marching band contest. In this contest the marching band competed against about 38 bands from all over the state.

The band played and marched to three selections, "Espana", "Send In the clowns", and "Beethoven's Ninth Symphony" under the direction of Robert Meurer and drum majors Robert Hoffman and Tim McMillan.

This year's orchestra consisted of about 45 students. Students in band or orchestra earn one-half credit per semester while learning and enjoying. They also form the pep band and musical orchestra.

Senior Rick Fenter carries the insignia of the band on his drum as he beats to the music.

Mary Miller really struts her stuff as she twirls herself in front of the band.

Senior Drum Major Bob Hoffman leads the band and shouts off the count to keep up the beat.

Freshman Pat Donahue really belts out the sound with the sure tone of the brass behind him.

Tim McMillian finds being Junior Drum Major a never ending task.

The Patriot Marching Band stands at attention and salutes the crowd with their music.

Enthusiasm the Secret

"Enthusiasm is the secret to being a good cheerleader."

That's the feeling of Mrs. Martha Griffin, who has been the sponsor of the Patriot cheerleaders for 13 years. She believes the cheerleaders must display this spirit whether the Patriots are winning or losing.

"I tell the girls 'where on the cheerleading application did it say they would be cheering only for a winning team'," said Griffin. "They act enthusiastic and keep the crowd the same way."

"Mrs. Griffin firsts enthusiasm as one of the four requirements for a cheerleader. The other requirements are movement, gymnastics, and appearance.

Prettiness is not a necessary factor for being a cheerleader. An outgoing personality is more important for a cheerleader Griffin explained.

The girls practice every day during ninth hour, and during basketball season the boy counterparts practice with them.

Mrs. Griffin summarized, "I enjoy very much working with the cheerleaders, and I feel they are a very important part of our athletic program."

Choral Groups Award Winning

Marshall has always been outstanding in its choral groups. The music department offered freshman choir to interested students. Students that decide to continue their singing can try-out for the successful performing ensembles the Sons of Liberty, Liberty Belles, Marshallaires and/or the Concert Choir.

Under the direction of Cynthia Featheringill, the Marshall choral groups have worked hard all year in order to prepare for their performances. The groups performed at various places such as shopping centers, nursing homes and the children's guardian home. The groups also performed in the school's auditorium.

They performed for shows such as Pats on Parade, Cavalcade of Music, Swing Choir Festival, Festival of the Arts and The Yuletide Concert.

Each year the groups take a song to district contests. If a group gets a first place in district they go to state contest. This year, all three groups won firsts in district. In the state, the Marshallaires and the Liberty Belles got a first and the Sons of Liberty placed second.

For the first time, the Concert had planned a trip to Philadelphia in April. The choir planned to perform in contests there.

Under the direction of Cindy Featheringill, The Concert Choir enjoyed performing all year.

Clubs Busy With Trips

One of the more interesting, yet rewarding school activities this year was membership in a foreign language club.

The foreign language clubs were very busy as usual with the many in-and out-of-school activities. The German Club had the largest membership this year, 102. In November, the club took their annual out-of-state trip with the funds raised by candy sales. The club travelled to Lancaster, Pennsylvania, on a three-day trip. Other activities entailed a picnic, a pizza party, and a visit to Kings Island.

The French Club, sponsored by Jan Hofts, started out the new school year by going to La Tours. The club had other activities during the year such as a Mardi Gras, a Halloween party, a pizza party, and a picnic. The club planned to wind up the year with a trip to Kings Island.

The Spanish Club was very active with its candy sales. The funds were used to obtain club jerseys and various trips.

The Latin Club, which is the smallest of the four clubs is sponsored by Helen Meranda. The club also sold candy for the profits going to various trips and club jerseys.

PATRIOTS Face Poor Facilities

The John Marshall boy's swim team ended their season with a 2 and 8 record. Their coach, John Deal, says this was due mainly to poor facilities and a lack of program. The team has some swimmers that it was proud of.

Three of the boys went on to the sectionals. They were Billy Rosenstihl, Gary Hallam and Allen Griffin. Rosenstihl swam the 100-yard butterfly and 100-yard backstroke. Hallam's events were the 200-yard IM and the 500-yard freestyle. Griffin swam both the 50 and 100-yard freestyle.

The freshmen on the team are Allen Griffin whose event is freestyle, Bill Rosenstihl who swims both butterfly and backstroke, and Robert Ullenhank who swims the backstroke. The sophomores are Gary Hallam who swims the IM and freestyle. John Lacy is the diver for the team. Sean Royce swims freestyle and Keith Williams swimming freestyle, also. The juniors consisted of Dennis Browning and Dan Milligan. Senior John Gerber swam the backstroke.

Team Does Well In Brain Game

"Long hard practice was the key to winning for this year's quiz team. All of the teachers at Marshall submitted cards with questions on different subjects. The team members quizzed each other with these cards and practiced different strategies many days after school.

Their practice was evident in the matches against Brebuef and Northwest, whom they both beat with large margins in the score.

The team members this year were Pete Riley, John Cutshaw, John Purcell, and Kenny Elliot. Alternates for the team were Brian Stewart, Joe Cutshaw, Lionel Butler. Lionel also served as team captain.

Honor Societies Special

Three honorary organizations at Marshall students vie for are Quill and Scroll, the publications honorary; National Honor Society, academic honorary, and Z Club, girls' service organization.

Students at John Marshall were selected by faculty members on the basis of their grade point average for the National Honor Society.

National Honor Society was founded in 1901. The reason for the National Honor Society was to give students an organization of a common symbol. The principle of the Society is to give students more prestige and strong emphasis.

At Marshall the chapter sells Valentine flowers for their only project of the year. The constitution states that students must be enrolled at least one semester here.

Z Club is an extension of Zonta, a service organization. The girls in Z Club help usher at school functions, act as leaders during Family Festival, and help children who are underprivileged. Jennifer Chapman is president.

Quill and Scroll is an honorary for juniors and seniors in publications who have been outstanding. They are the leaders of the yearbook and newspaper. Elected once a year, Pam Lloyd was this year's president.

Even so, many activities were pushed aside and left undone because there wasn't enough time to complete everything planned. Student Council President Wes Gainey blames part of this on the teachers strike at the beginning of the school year. Several projects, including three pep rallies, that had been planned since summer were put off.

Wes felt that student participation was higher this year than ever before. However, he regrets the fact that many students were not better informed of the Student Council's actions. Gainey does believe that much of the student participation is because the students and administration can relate to each other better.

Wes said that the Student Council had more activities for this year and was looking forward to support from the student body. "They can only be successful if the student body makes them successful," Gainey stated.

Key Club Full of New Ideas

"At a recent membership drive there were twenty new members. Many students would like to know how the members are selected. The student is first nominated by a teacher from one of his classes, then a committee holds a meeting which is led by the second Vice-president. From there he reviews the nominations and sends letters to the students. It is then up to the student to attend meetings if he or she desires to be a part of this club," stated club President Kathy Turner.

Key Club is the high school group dedicated to community service. New ideas were discussed and basic plans for an activity were formed in monthly board meetings.

The sponsor of the club is the Northeastwood Kiwanis. The faculty sponsor was Mr. David Otto. He gave the club advice on how to organize the projects. It was with his help that the club's projects became successful.

No Nukes Is Good Nukes

RADIATION KILLS

No single industry threatens survival or the quality of our lives with such brutal finality as atomic power.

Even during "normal" operations, all nuclear reactors emit radiation which causes cancer, leukemia and birth defects. It takes just one radioactive atom, and one mutated cell to cause a fatal case of cancer.

It doesn't take a meltdown for nuclear power to kill. Radiation can injure the genetic coding in sperm and egg cells, leading to defects among unborn children to come.

The attack of radiation on our cells is cumulative. The more we get, the greater our chances of incurring cancer.

The continued production of these deadly rays constitutes an involuntary experiment with the health and safety of us all. We can't continue this radioactive assault without expecting the worst for this and future generations.

NUCLEAR MURDER

*On the evening of November 13, 1974, Karen Silkwood, a 27-year-old union organizer and a mother of three, was driving along Oklahoma Highway 74. She was en route to a meeting with a NEW YORK TIMES reporter and an official of her union, the Oil, Chemical and Atomic workers. For the previous six weeks she had been secretly gathering evidence of unsafe and illegal practices at her workplace, the Kerr-McGee plutonium factory, 20 miles from Oklahoma City. Her findings were on the seat beside her.

But on her way, Karen's lightweight Honda swerved off the road, hit a concrete abutment and crashed, killing her instantly. The Oklahoma Highway Patrol ruled she had fallen asleep at the wheel, but an investigator hired by the OCAW found evidence Karen's car had been pushed off the road. The documents she was carrying mysteriously disappeared.

In 1979, four years after her death U.S. District Judge Frank Theis opened Karen's case on charges that her apartment had been contaminated with deadly plutonium in attempt to terrorize her. On May 16, a jury of three men and three women awarded the Silkwood family $500,00 as compensation for her suffering.

MUSE

MUSE (Musicians United for Safe Energy) is a group of artists and activists working for a future built on the natural power of the sun and for an end to the threat of atomic power plants and nuclear weapons. For five days, September 19-23, 1979, a benefit concert was at Madison Square Garden working for a non-nuclear future. A three album project along with a motion picture was produced in which all proceeds go to pro-solar and anti-nuclear groups around the country.

The performers on the album have strong feelings on their anti-nuclear involvement. Jackson Browne, board member of the MUSE foundation, stated, "We have to educate each other, and I think we have to take control while we still have the chance to. And if we don't maybe we don't deserve to be here. We can just go ahead and let the mutant sponges inherit the earth."

Another MUSE member, James Taylor proved his feelings by stating, "It's the whole economy. Weapons are the main thing the world is building aside from houses and automobiles for Americans. It's a world that's building itself a really super firecracker."

MELTDOWN

*Three Mile Island is the best known reactor accident. But it was neither the first nor the worst. Time and again, human error, poor design, shoddy construction and cost-cutting by reactor owners have brought us to the brink of atomic catastrophe.

One of the first major accidents came in October 1957, when uranium fuel caught fire in the core of the Windscale reactor in northern England. Temperature readings, and monitors at the top of the plant's emission towers showed that radioactive gases were pouring into the countryside. Instruments in London, miles away, soon recorded 300 rads of abnormal radiation.

Three Mile Island showed that a major reactor catastrophe can happen and can threaten millions of lives and billions of dollars in property damage.

LETHAL TRASH

All nuclear reactors produce enormous quantities of "fiendishly toxic" waste. Plutonium, the deadliest of these wastes, remains dangerously radioactive for 240,000 years. It must be stored to perfection forever. Large quantities have already leaked into the environment. Thousands of pounds are being created everyday, and no safe disposal system is operable.

Deadly radioactive materials travel on interstate highways, on our railroads and through our airports everyday. Three million packages of nuclear fuel, medical isotopes and atomic wastes move through the U.S. each year. The NRC says the number of such shipments will quadruple by 1985.

From 1946 to 1962 more than 47,000 barrels of waste from the nuclear weapons program were dumped in the Pacific Ocean off the Farallon Islands, 35 miles west of San Francisco. U.S. Environmental Protection Agency experts now say a quarter of those drums have already leaked, contaminating the ocean and the marine life.

A SOLAR FUTURE

Now that we have entered the eighties it is time to ponder the situation of our energy sources. The kind of society we can have with solar power will be far healthier and more stable than the one we have now. The key to the solar transition is to cut back on waste. We throw away fully half the energy we now use—twelve times what we get from the nukes. Turning to solar power will give us energy independence, cut inflation and create safe, clean, permanent community based jobs.

Earning Money Can Be Fun, Necessary

Dairy Queen, Bloodgood's Photographic Emporium, MCL Cafeteria, and WNAP radio station are only a few companies that may interest teenagers looking for work.

Most companies pay students at least the minimum wage of $2.90 to start, but others pay more than the required wage. Preston Cosby relates that the hours spent on his job at WNAP vary. David Mogollon, Chris Mitchell and Sheryl Neal report that they work between 10-30 hours a week at their jobs.

The paycheck is cashed and used for purchasing such things as records, but some teenagers also have the responsibility of putting that $1+ a gallon gas in the car. Preston Cosby is able to put a part of his salary into the bank.

Teenagers should keep distance in mind when applying for work so that they do not spend all their earnings on gasoline. Teenagers who do not have their own cars, like Chris and David, rely on family and friends for transportation to and from work.

Naturally, everyone works to earn money, but the students also report that they enjoy their jobs and believe working is fun. Most of them feel that work has not interfered with school and all are able to participate in activities such as cross country, yearbook, school newspaper, and personal interests such as concerts.

David has worked for two months,

Chris one month, Sheryl for seven months and Preston has been with WNAP for a year and a half. All except Sheryl have had other jobs before. None of the companies mentioned hire persons younger than 16.

Whenever a student is looking for a job, he should consider several things. For example, make sure the company is not too far from home and that they can give you hours that will not conflict with school. Also, be sure you still have time for personal interests and activities.

All Around Mass Confusion

Teachers' picketing, students walking out of class, T.V. cameras and interviews and long term negotiations, parents posing as teachers and all around mass confusion—that's what was taking place of regular classes the first six weeks of the school year.

All of this was brought about because the teachers were not happy with their contract and felt the school board was manipulating them like puppets.

The IEA and school board sat down to talks in early March. Then in August just before the start of school, the teachers voted to strike and strike they did as more than 65 percent of the teachers decided to walk the picket line; some of the Metro bus drivers refused to cross picket lines, thus forcing students to walk a little farther.

During the strike Marshall's parking lot became a hang-out for students who decided to skip a class. But the question was asked, "Why should we go to class. The teachers weren't there to give us a proper education." Many parents were called in to substitute for the teachers, even parents that didn't even have a high school education. Marshall students soon got tired of this and staged a walk-out.

The teachers reported back to school Wednesday, October 3.

On Feb. 21, the report came in. The contract returned from the arbitrator. No one was totally pleased; but, the negotiations for 1979-80 were finished.

Always Eager to Help Pats

John Marshall has on its staff people whose duty it is to direct and assist students in career choices and programs. Deans and counselors are always eager to help pupils with questions and personal problems.

To introduce newcomers to the school, the administrative staff includes Principal Thomas Haynes and Vice-Principals Fred Jones and James Rodeheffer. The dean of girls is Marilyn Hardwick and Gloria Dozier is the assistant. The dean of boys is Pierce Cody and George McCool is the assistant. Counselors are John Vardaman, Marjorie Christy, Ben Sanders, and Don Austin.

One facet of the administrators job is to develop projects for student participation. Some of the projects that were available this year were, the Homecoming Dance, which included a big sound system and light show. Senior girls had a chance of playing Powderpuff Football. All classes worked hard on their Homecoming Floats.

Senior Gary Olson has a '67 Barracuda with a 340 engine. Gary doesn't drive his car much, but when he does he has to use airplane fuel. Airplane fuel is 115% octane and the highest octane gas for cars you can buy is Premium which is 92%. "They both cost about the same," Gary stated, "but airplane fuel gives better performance and eliminates knocks and pings."

Gary's Cruisin' 'Cuda was in the 1980 World of Wheels auto show at the Convention Center. Last year the 'Cuda was in the Car Craft Nationals. Gary has also made arrangements with Car Craft Magazine to feature photos of his cars sometime this year.

Gary bought his car 4 years ago for $400. He says, "It was a piece of junk when I bought it, but I put my life savings and a lot of hard work into it." It certainly shows Barkdull is another se-

Mitch drives his Chevy daily, but he is planning on buying another car for everyday use so he can build up his '67 to the max!

Mitch has never been in any auto shows, but he is planning on entering the Street Machine Nationals this June. He also hopes to put the Chevy on the World of Wheels in a year or two.

In the World of Wheels, Gary's engine looks really sleek decked out in chrome and dual 4 barrels.

Gary Olson's '67 Crusin' Cuda is a real show car at the World of Wheels in the Convention Center. Many oohs and aahs were heard by passersby.

Mitch Barkdull's '67 Chevelle is in the process of becoming quite a bad ride. Here Mitch's Main Squeeze (Kate Weir) poses with Sparky's sharp Chevelle.

Mitch's stock 327 cubic inch Chevy smallblock is backed up by Hurst vertigate four speed shifter. Not quite ready for World of Wheels . . . but close.

Senior Year— Sounds Good

Senior year. Sounds good, huh? When I was a freshman I thought it would never get here, but it came too fast. This is the year of decision making. What am I going to do the rest of my life? What college am I going to attend?

Aside from all these major decisions, my senior year was my best year in high school. In the past four years I've made so many close friends and learned to get along with most teachers. Now just when I'm getting used to it, I've got to leave.

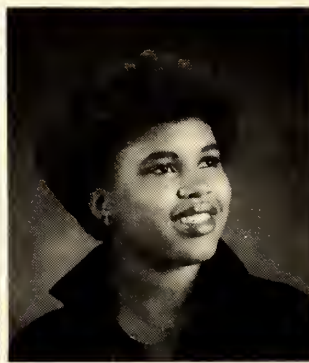

Some of us caught "senioritus" long before the 500 "they owe us these days" cuts. But many of us had started the 8-hour work days and daily adult hassle of making money and needs met.

Well, our class of 611 has had a good four years. We've had a great athletic four years, good studies and some good parties. What's going to happen after we graduate is real important to us, but as for now, Go To Hell World, I'm a SENIOR.

Starting your high school career is much like beginning a race—it's two-edged. You run by yourself, but your finish reflects on your family and your school as well as yourself.

Foreign Exchange Students Welcomed at JMHS

Among all the other Marshall students wearing blue jeans and t-shirts, they look like all-American boys. But, they're really Marshall's foreign exchange students Paolo Bustreo, Sebastian Waldorf and Andres Alvarez who have come to America to study.

Paolo, 18, comes from Stockholm, Sweden. He lives with Nick Tuttle and his family.

Most Marshall students were kind to him and welcomed him to the school. Some of the differences he's found are social. "Friends gather in the living room or the kitchen here whereas in Sweden, they gather in their own rooms."

"Dating, too, is different," Paolo related. "Here girls usually don't ask boys out, but in Sweden they do."

Paolo, who finds little time for his hobbies of soccer, reading and ice hockey, says he feels his time in the U.S. is a dream come true.

Sebastian Waldorf is from Hamburg, Germany. The U.S. was his first choice because he was fluent in English, and the power of America made it seem interesting to him.

While here in the U.S., Sebastian lives with senior Keith Jones and his family. Although Marshall has more security than his old school, he found most of Marshall's students have been receptive to him. He feels that his year in the U.S. will help him because he met many wonderful friends and he has learned to accept other's opinions.

Sebastian's hobbies include soccer and conversation. He is a member of Marshall's swim team.

While Paolo and Sebastian have been at Marshall since August, Marshall's third exchange student only arrived in January.

Andres Alvarez from Bogota, Columbia, lives with Butch and Terri Ramsey's family. While being welcomed by most students, Andres found many were inquisitive about his homeland.

Juniors Set Career Goals

The junior year in high school seems to be the favorite of many students. They enjoy being juniors because they are now "upperclassmen". They feel comfortable and are excited about coming to the end of their high school years.

The junior year is a time for reflection. Students look back on their school years and all the fun they have had. They recall friendships, parties, teachers, and many wonderful experiences. They also must reflect on the future. The junior year is a time for making decisions. It is a time for making lifetime plans and getting "your act together."

Of all the years spent in school, this is probably the most important. Now is the time to buckle down to plan college or to make definite decisions about careers. It is also the most fun.

Now is the time to enjoy school and friends before it is time to say good-bye.

One project that is both fun and a pain in the neck is planning and constructing a "winning" float.

With the Carter request for registration of 18-20 year olds, many students took a new look at the recruitment offers.

The "junior" coaches fight for both referee's and team's attention. JV assistant coach Anderson explains a floor plan while JV coach Baugh asks for an explanation.

Basketball games are filled with tension and excitement. Twirlers and coaches "perform."

Sophomores Settle in Well

A feeling of relief surrounded you as you entered the home of the Patriots for the first time that second year. You were no longer a freshman, nervous in new surroundings. You were a sophomore.

Sophomore. Another word for it could be sophist. It means one who uses clever reasoning, not necessarily being correct. Sly could be a choice for its definition.

Many sophomores jeered incoming freshmen continuing the tradition handed down from predecessors, but they soon got over it and welcomed the new arrivals as fellow inmates of ol' JMHS.

Biology was and still is the dread of the sophomore student. Collecting leaves, sighting birds, field trips were all tedious chores. Fun was poked at the girl who regurgitated during the dissection of the puppet pig, grasshopper . . . and the frog. Remember the times the boy who always slept in the back of the room was bombed with paper wads by yours truly.

Looking back as we approached the final days of semester two, we came to the realization that the year wasn't all that bad.

Many new acquaintances were made and good times were had.

The year ended. Farewells, keep in touches, and see you next years were exchanged, not to mention phone numbers. But you'll be back next year as a junior.

Ah! But, that's a different story.

Where Have All The Guides Gone?

Where do old magazines go when they become outdated? If you think they wind up in dentists' or doctors' offices, waiting rooms waiting for the tenth anniversary of their release, you're wrong. In fact one Marshall student is serious about collecting magazines and has been collecting T.V. Guides for the past 10 years.

Scott Holden, a senior at Marshall began collecting the magazines after a friend who had been collecting comic books inspired him to begin a collection. Scott calls his collection "just a hobby" and at present has close to 600 of the weekly periodical which features information about television and a complete weekly listing of all the shows on the tube. Scott keeps his collection in a bookcase in his room. Although he claims he has no real reason to save, he admits that "some of the earliest editions are worth close to $120." Scott really has no favorite but he does admit to being the proud possessor of the "March 26-April 1st" of 1960" edition with a Donna Reed photo on the cover which has a collector's value of $60. Scott wrote to New York to search for information about his magazines and was informed that only one other person in the USA has a collection even near the value of his.

Scott plans to go on collecting the magazines and in the future intends to pass on the collection to his children. Scott admits with an air of anticipation in his voice, "Someday this will be worth a lot of money that's looking a lot ahead a bit isn't it?"

Freshmen—We Endured

We made it. Summer ended and as September approached, we began to realize that we had survived. The torturous "Freshman Year" wasn't really as bad as we thought. When we first came to high school, we looked at our first year as a monumental task we would never get through. But we made it! Now we look ahead. Oh, sure, being a sophomore must be a breeze compared to being a freshman.

"FRESHMAN!", oh the terrible calls from the crowded lunchroom as we dropped our trays still ring a heavy echo in our minds, but we were wrong. Our first mistake was believing it would get easier because it didn't. Now two words screamed like threats on our lives as we scanned our schedules; BIOLOGY and ENGLISH III! Sure they're only words, but to us poor young students, fresh out of high school weening, they seemed like the biggest road blocks we'd ever face. But, wait, are we not Patriots? Can we not endure and survive? After all at least we're getting somewhere. Not we know our way around the school and even our knees don't shake when we get a call slip. Relax, sophomores! You're in and you've only got two more years 'til you're a senior. And that in itself is an incentive isn't it? We'll make it and we'll come out on top because after all we're the Patriot class of '82 and we're going to show them what to do!

Dr. James Gaither checks for corridor passes in the English hall.

The frosh float captured attention and began the Class of '83's participation in activities.

Chemistry is another elective fresh should consider; especially if college seems possible.

Have you ever been in a dark alley, with a huge dude about to send you to a three to four-day stay in a hospital and you only wished you knew how to defend yourself? Well, one Marshall student, Mark Moore, a senior, has been taking Tai-kwon-doe lessons for the past five years. He's a second degree black belt.

It doesn't take a college degree to figure out you'd have to be crazy to go up against that kind of experience. Mark said he began taking lessons after a friend of his, Larry Mullins took him along to watch one day. Soon afterwards Mark, who takes his lessons at TKA Karate on Pendleton Pike, says the difference between Tai Kwon doe and the other marshall arts is that Tai-Kwon-doe is 70% kicking and does not use hands or fists as much.

Mark says he takes the lessons both for recreation as well as to learn to defend himself. Mark plans to go on taking Tai-won-doe because it is very interesting and is a great form of exercise. So, goons watch out, Mark Moore isn't your average prey; in fact, you might end up the victim.

Draft Registration Raises Teen Temperatures

President Carter proposed on February 8, 1980 that draft registration be opened to both men and women between the ages of 19 and 20. The proposal raised controversy across the country.

Many girls at Marshall have stated that they oppose draft registration for women. Some of the reasons for opposition are that "women aren't prepared for war and wouldn't be able to adapt to war."

Several of the country's women's groups support Carter's proposition. Carter's largest opposition comes from the Congress which believes that women soldiers would be detrimental to the security of the country during a war.

Since the proposal, the Canadian Embassy has reported an increase in calls from both male and female Americans wanting to find out how to emigrate to Canada. Many government officials have stated that they do not believe Americans will exercise draft evasion as in the Vietnamese War of the late 1960's.

Carter believes that draft registration is necessary at this time. He also realized "that both men and women are working members of our society."

'Must' Material Covered

After a rocky beginning, the Marshall faculty pushed academics into a speed-up schedule so students wouldn't be hurt by the month-long delay of getting school settled. Most teachers gave incompletes for the first grading period. The "must" material was covered in most classes. It was the enrichment and class time for homework which was shortened or eliminated.

One major problem attacked in the second semester was tardiness. Thanks, to the 208-209 system and study hall teachers, students soon learned to get to class on time. Brice Tressler, David Clapp and David Roberts attended to the project's paper work.

Teacher surplus took its toll when Deborah Smith, Tom Van Lieu and Lynn Palenik were "trimmed" from the staff because enrollment had dropped. Palenik joined Sigrid Vau-bel at Marshall in the federally-funded reading program while Van Lieu and Smith were sent to junior highs.

Contract dispute, flu, 13% inflation, Iran's hostages, Russians on the move, the piano lab, first place city math scores, reading improvement, increased student attendance, the addition of the federally-funded Guidance Learning Center and getting grants for three more computer systems and increased faculty participation in North Central evaluation of other schools were all part of the year.

“Not To Be Forgotten”

One of the hardest things next to starting back to school is bringing the year to a close. Patriots look back with mixed emotions—at things not to be forgotten.

Although the '80's have just begun, a new Patriot Pride has also. Beginning with the IPS teachers' strike and continuing through the draft controversy, Marshall's students have been active with concern and dedication.

“Marshall Law” took effect in a new, yet debatable form—you guessed it: Room 208. The words “Room 208” brought on a dreaded feeling for the students; but the Patriots took it in stride since no one was really hanged or tortured as suggested by humorous rumors and cartoons.

“Marshall Law—Not To Be Forgotten” suggests looking back, but also entails the anxiety held for the upcoming year. The '79-'80 school year has started the 80's with a bang—of friendship, dedication, and Patriotism.

by Jill Wetzel

The stereotypes surrounding a day in the life of the yearbook publications staff are deep enough to wade through. Perhaps, being on the staff myself, I should attempt to clear up all of the rumors. I decided to write down one day's events just to set the record straight for all you lay people.

Beaming with self pride, I set the sheets of freshly typed copy on the golden colored counter in front of my editor, one Pamela Suzanne Lloyd. She says nothing to me but merely acknowledges my presence by a short glance as she sorts through a heaping pile of stories.

I stroll back to my seat, intent on starting that racy new paperback I borrowed from a friend. Savoring the precious free time, I take my seat and open the book and begin.

Suddenly, without warning, a shrill and familiar cry hits my ears. I look up to see Pam, hand-on-hips, standing like a panther ready to strike. "I need stories! I need pictures. Where are those lazy photographers?" she slams the cabinet drawer for emphasis. "Jill!" Pam screams with force. Jill obediently appears from out of nowhere. Most likely she was telling the typists one of her outrageous family stories.

"What is it?" Jill asks as she attempts to calm Pam down.

Where is that stupid social studies story?" Pam asks as her fingers fly over the paper stack searching for the missing story.

"I don't know," Jill says as she begins searching also, "but we've got a deadline tomorrow and no one's written the IMC story yet!"

Suddenly, I perk up, fear begins to settle in. The IMC story has got to be one of the dullest assignments there is. I begin to imagine hunting down the librarians for information. Endless hours of writing and typing. NO! Not my desk and I try to conceal myself. I don't want another assignment. I begin to chew my nails and I notice the soreness in my hands from the hunt-and-peck typing that we're forced to do. I hear another voice and I turn to my right to see another student hiding under his desk.

"I've been down here since she asked someone to write a story on the custodians. I just couldn't handle it anymore!" The student obviously on the verge of a nervous breakdown, begins to cry. But somehow he manages to continue, "I heard she had two freshmen so shook up they committed suicide!" I shake my head in horror and my hands tremble with fear.

"It seems they just couldn't handle it," he goes on, "she made them rewrite a story on Mr. Jones three times and their minds just went snap!" He snaps his fingers in an imitating gesture.

Our conversation is cut short as I turn to see two pairs of legs standing like poles in front of me. Shamefully I crawl from my hiding place and stand in front of my captors. I bow my head and offer prayer for mercy.

"We've decided you're to do the IMC story," she says commandingly.

"Okay, you win," I say as I gather my books, "I'll leave right now."

As I pass the darkroom I hear strange disco music seeping out through the vent.

"Not so fast," a voice booms, as I turn to see Ms. Eberle the yearbook sponsor's frame filling the doorway. She walks to the darkroom door and pounds her fist on it several times. "Cut that music and get to work!" she says with a tone of authority. She turns to face me, I look away.

"I think a penalty is deserved here Ms. Lloyd, why don't we call the other editor up here and we shall decide on a proper reprimand." Pam immediately leaves to get Kathy out of Art class. They soon return and the two as well as Ms. Eberle shut themselves in her cave-like office. They emerge from the office bearing smiles sometime later. Pam speaks up, obviously the speaker of the three, "We've decided to revoke your restroom and hall pass privileges," she says coldly as I fall to my knees and burst into tears.

"The perfect punishment for such a crime," Ms. Eberle says.

"Oh, no, please anything but that!" I beg futilely, "Not my restroom pass!" I become a mass of wretching sobs.

And so the story ends, a day in the life of the Marhiscan staff. Enough to make you want to drop your journalism class, isn't it? Ah, yes! But fear in itself is exciting isn't it!

—Mark Goff

THANK YOU

There are always many persons to thank when a giant project like a yearbook is finished. We'd like to thank our families for their patience, one boyfriend for his understanding, and our advisor for the extra help.

Larry Glaze from Herff Jones was a big help on details. Brian Gough helped with typing and many thanks go to newspaper for help.

Marshall Law—get the job done in the best way you can to get the best result. We hoped we lived up to it.

Kathy and Pam
